Save the Date ... PJC Book Group Sunday, May 14th at 11:30am Discussion Leaders Needed

Our first PJC Book Group session had 12 engaged & enthusiastic participants. The discussion centered on "Judas" by Amos Oz which portrays the nature of betrayal from the time of Jesus to the founding of the nascent Jewish state and its influence on current events in Israel today. A copy is available in the Library in the section on Israeli writers.

The Book Group is looking for future Book Group Leaders. Discussion Leaders select a book and schedule the meeting for an upcoming Sunday (contact Julia to schedule on PJC calendar). The Group will be scheduled every two months to give congregants enough time to read the book and prepare. The book choice can be either fiction or non-fiction, but must have a Jewish theme or author.

Ana Turkienicz will lead the next Book Group on Sunday, May 14th at 11:30am. We will be reading, "Thank You for Being Late" by Thomas L. Friedman.

If you are interested, please contact our PJC Librarian, Barbara Saunders-Adams.
